Because Fieldfares don't nest in Britain & Ireland we're not aware that they can be particularly aggressive in defending their nests against egg-thieves, often bombarding them with faeces! Smaller birds often nest close by to benefit from some extra protection. RR89226 wintered in two different countries in successive winters. To date, the Ringing Scheme has received 47 reports of Fieldfare found in Italy, but so far no Italian ringed birds have been found here.
